Relationship between concepts of decent wage and minimum wage under labor legislation of Russia

Key words Remuneration; minimum wage; industry agreement; regional agreement; minimum wage in constituent entity
Minimum wage is a labor law concept, which has had a thorny and controversial history, and bitter fate. Minimum wage is guaranteed by the Constitution; it is also an element of payment according to labor principle under labor law. However the elements of such principle are hardly put into effect. That is why in the context of Russian law the principle of decent wage aligned with the minimum wage represents a destabilizing factor in the regulation of labor relations and economy in general.
